Services for Persons with Disabilities

This information is available on the Web, at:
http://www.libraries.rutgers.edu/rul/lib\_servs/disabil.shtml

The staff of the Rutgers University Libraries provide services and/or accommodations aimed at equalizing access to library resources. It may be to your advantage to make an appointment for non-routine accommodations so that appropriate staff can be scheduled to provide timely assistance.

Services

Some examples of the services that may be provided, in addition to services such as document delivery or interlibrary loan, include:

- retrieval of materials from the stacks
- physical assistance with searching the Libraries' online catalog, related databases, and manual files and assistance with using microform and audiovisual equipment
- reference or other assistance by appointment
- photocopying assistance for on-site copying
- modified reserve loan periods

For questions about more specific services at a particular library call the individual from each library designated as coordinator for services for persons with disabilities, or for a smaller library, call the number listed in this guide. For answers to questions relating to library system-wide services or suggestions for service improvement, call the Libraries' Coordinator of Services for Persons with Disabilities, Eileen Stec, at 848/932–5009. Services provided by the law libraries may vary; check with those libraries directly for more information.

For information about non-library services, call the Coordinator of Services for Students with Disabilities at your college of enrollment or affiliation (see: <http://disabilityservices.rutgers.edu>).

Access

All libraries are wheelchair accessible. Information on the best path to each library is available by calling the individual library directly.

The Libraries' online catalog and databases are available on the Libraries website at <http://www.libraries.rutgers.edu>. There are computers available in all the libraries and campus computing facilities, as well as remote access via your own computer connected to the University's network.

Adaptive Equipment

The Libraries are continuing to acquire adaptive technology for patron use. The equipment is purchased with the understanding that it can be moved from library to library as user needs dictate and as feasible.

Six Kurzweil reading machines for learning disabled patrons are located in the Alexander, Douglass, and Kilmer Libraries, and the Library of Science and Medicine in New Brunswick/Piscataway; the Dana Library in Newark; and the Robeson Library in Camden. The Kurzweil machines are connected to computers so that data can be downloaded.

Five computers with JAWS software, which reads aloud what is on the screen, are available in the Alexander, Douglass, and Kilmer Libraries, and the Library of Science and Medicine in New Brunswick/Piscataway, Dana Library in Newark and the Robeson Library in Camden.

CCTV video magnifiers are located in the Alexander, Dana, Douglass, Kilmer, and Robeson Libraries, and the Library of Science of Medicine.
