APhA is pleased that PharmacyLibrary will be a part of your curricula and we’ve prepared these key quick reference instructions to introduce you to some basic ways of navigating through this powerful online resource.

Please consult with your institution’s library or IT department to help you with accessing PharmacyLibrary for use both on and off campus.

Conducting a Search:

PharmacyLibrary can assist you with your search. Just select the topic you want and then click on the magnifying glass in the red box.

Your Search Results:

Search results are tied to the most relevant topics in a broad range of resources that are housed in PharmacyLibrary. From your results, you can select leading textbooks, case studies, abstracts from the Journal of the American Pharmacists Association, or current news. For a more in-depth search, click on Do a full-text search to perform an extended search throughout PharmacyLibrary.
Access to Instructor Material—Creating a Personal Profile (for faculty members only):

To access instructor-only material, you must first set up a personal profile in PharmacyLibrary. To create your personal profile from the home page click on: create one now. If you’ve already created a profile, go to the NAPLEX® Review section and click on Log in to your personal profile, which will give you access to all of the instructor materials available throughout PharmacyLibrary.

Finishing Your Personal Profile and Confirming Your Status:

After you have completed the standard personal profile fields, you will need to register your status as an instructor by clicking on the Contact us link. This will open a new window with an email form to PharmacyLibrary. Please send us an email with the user name and email address you used for registration. We’ll verify your faculty status and, within 72 hours, you’ll receive a return email confirming that your account has been enabled with access to all of PharmacyLibrary’s instructor-only materials. Prior to leaving the personal profile webpage, please make sure you click on the green Save button.

Access to Instructor-Only Material:

Once your account has been established, you will have automatic access to instructor-only material each time you log in. For example, you now have access to the Case Studies Instructor’s Keys.

Instructor Material for the Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs:

As a faculty member with a personal profile, you also have access to the Instructor’s Templates for APhA’s Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs. From the Reference Library, select the textbook. Sections and chapters have accompanying Instructor’s Templates, which are available for your ready access.
Instructor Material for Medication Errors:

As a faculty member with a personal profile, you also have access to the instructor’s lecture notes for Medication Errors. From the Reference Library, select the textbook. Any section and chapter that has accompanying instructor’s lecture notes will be available for you to access. These materials are provided in PowerPoint format.

Instructor Material for Spanish for the Pharmacy Professional:

As a faculty member with a personal profile, you also have access to the Instructor Guide for Spanish for the Pharmacy Professional, including a sample syllabus, exams, and more.

NOTE: To gain access to the instructor materials off campus, please log in to your institution’s subscription first. You can ask your institution’s library or IT department to provide you with instructions on this step.

Printing From PharmacyLibrary:

PharmacyLibrary’s collection of textbooks are within the Reference Library and Case Studies tabs. Each textbook is divided into sections and furthermore into chapters. You can choose to print either an entire section or a chapter from that section.

Search Primary Literature:

Within the references sections of textbooks, hyperlinks to abstracts of cited primary literature at PubMed and other relevant bodies of reference are provided for further research on a particular subject.
