Guide to New Jersey Maps: Supplement
Topographic Atlas of New Jersey (First Series)
INTRODUCTION

The Guide to New Jersey Maps is a listing and indexing of maps depicting New Jersey, surrounding areas, and regions and municipalities within the state, which constitute the New Jersey Map Collection of the Department of Special Collections and Archives of Rutgers University Libraries, housed in the Alexander Library, New Brunswick, New Jersey.

The collection as described here consists of 1,690 map titles. The majority of these are printed maps, although there are some manuscript maps cataloged in this Guide. However, the bulk of the Department's manuscript map collection is not included in the Guide at this time.

These maps are generally available for public use within the Department, although some restrictions may apply due to the condition of individual maps.

The Guide consists of a register, or listing, of all map records, presented in a hierarchical/alphabetical order, and five indexes to the register.

The Guide may be accessed by direct use of the register, which is arranged in a geographically-oriented format, or by reference to the register through use of the indexes. It is advisable to refer to the indexes at some point in any thorough search, as this is the only means by which all maps reflecting any one particular element may be linked.

USING THE REGISTER

Each entry is preceded by a unique classification number assigned to each map record. The entries are presented in order of these classification numbers.

The Classification Numbers

The first segment, four digits, is generally based on the Library of Congress Classification, Schedule G, and, for New Jersey, may be interpreted as follows:

- 3810 General maps of the entire state
- 3811 Subject maps of the entire state
- 3812 General and subject maps of regions and features within the state which lie in more than one county
- 3813 Maps of counties; then maps of regions within single counties; then maps of municipalities within the county

The second segment, three digits, consists of an alphanumeric code used to signify a feature or a county, or a numeric code used to signify a region.

The third segment, three digits, is a numeric code used to signify subjects, regions, or municipalities.

Preference in the construction of this classification number has been given to geographic area; therefore, the presentation of entries in classification number order results in a primarily geographic listing, from larger to smaller areas. However, counties and cities within those counties appear in alphabetical order.

The fourth segment, six digits, shows the year of publication combined with alphabetic specifiers which distinguish maps with otherwise identical classification numbers.
The Entries

Each entry contains the following data in the following format:

Classification number

Cartographer, editor or agency of publication

Title

Place of publication; publisher; date of publication, date of situation.

Format and color; dimension; scale as representative fraction, scale as verbal statement.

Series.

Contents notes.

Insets. Indexes.

Other notes.

Location in department; condition code.

Cartographer/editor/agency; series; contents notes; insets; indexes; other notes appear if available and applicable. All other date always appears.

Data which is supplied, i.e., did not appear on map, is given in brackets.

Date of situation refers to the time frame of the information or events depicted on the map, and may vary from the date of publication. Thus, a map showing battles of the Revolutionary War, but published in 1976, would have a date of situation of 1776-1783.

Absence of any statement of color indicates a 2-color map (although not necessarily black-and-white).

Verbal scale statements always make reference to one inch, i.e., 1"=12 miles. Approximate scales result when the scale was measured by hand or computed.

Contents notes include such items as illustrations, text on the map, mileage charts, tables, advertisements, etc.

References in the notes areas to Grametbaur or Kerr refer, respectively, to Annotated bibliography and index of atlases and maps of New Jersey, 1800-1948 by Agnes B. Grametbaur, unpublished typescript dated 1953 (Rutgers NJ Z6027.N5G74), and Worksheets: New Jersey in printed maps to 1800 by William T. Kerr, unpublished typescript dated 1977 (Rutgers NJ Z6027.N5K4W).

Location and condition codes are in-house locating and use aids. The condition codes range from 1 to 7, with 1 signifying a map in extremely poor or fragile condition, and 7 signifying a map in excellent condition. Note that this condition code was assigned at the time of original cataloging, and the condition of the map may have changed since that time.

Standard abbreviations which appear include:

s.l. sine loco, or no place of publication given s.n. sine nomine, or no name of publisher given n.d. no date of publication given
cm. centimeters
mi. miles
c circa, or approximately

State abbreviations used are standard two-letter postal codes.

USING THE INDEXES

Certain data elements which appear in the entries in the register are indexed and appear in one or more of the indexes following the register. These elements include the cartographer/editor/agency (called Main Entry); the series title; and the date of situation.

In addition, other data elements have been entered into the map record and are indexed, although they do not appear in the register. These include other personal names associated with the production of the map; and personal and corporate names, subject headings and geographic headings which describe information depicted on the map.

The Indexes

Subject Index
This index includes subject headings and personal and corporate names which appear as subjects on the map. The following guidelines have been used in the assignment of these terms. For personal names: the fullest verifiable form available of the name is used; personal titles are used only if needed to distinguish common names; "esquire" is not used; a surname with the word "family" may be used if the same surname appears more than three times on a map. For corporate names: proper names which are not personal names are included in this category; these include proper names of manmade features, such as railroads, canals, mines, industries, land-holding companies, land grants, etc.; all named railroads and canals which appear on a map are listed; names of major natural features, such as lakes and rivers (i.e., Lake Hopatcong, Passaic River) appear only if the map depicts such a feature with singular intent. For subject headings: a list of subject headings precedes the subject index and includes appropriate "see" and "see also" references; assigned subject headings include general headings for corporate, manmade or natural features which appear on the map, whether or not their proper names are given on the map.

Entries in the subject index are further subdivided by geographic headings listed in alphabetical order. See the description below for further guidelines used in the assignment of geographic headings.

Main Entry Index
This index includes all personal and corporate names which show responsibility for producing the map, including cartographer, editor, topographer, geographer, government and non-government agencies and groups, and the names of publishers only when the publisher is a single personal name (thus, commercial publishing companies are not included).

Geographic Index
This index includes all assigned geographic headings. Headings are assigned for states, counties and incorporated municipalities. Maps assigned headings for areas larger than municipalities are generally not also assigned headings for smaller divisions within that area (i.e., a map of New Jersey will not also be assigned headings for all counties). Conversely, a map of a small area is not assigned headings of the larger areas within which it falls (i.e., a map of New Brunswick will not also be assigned a heading for Middlesex County). However, a map showing more than four similar political divisions may be assigned a heading only for the larger division within which they fall (i.e., a map showing Orange, East Orange, South Orange, West Orange and Maplewood would only be assigned the heading Essex County NJ, rather than headings for each municipality).

Headings are not assigned for variant and local names within an incorporated municipality, nor, in this index, for physical features such as rivers, lakes and mountains. The political division within which these fall constitutes the assigned heading.

Similarly, current names only are used for geographic headings. This guideline, while applied throughout, should be specifically noted with regards to places which have historical names different from the current name (i.e., a nineteenth century map of the city of Port Orem will be assigned only the geographic heading Wharton NJ, which is the current name of that municipality, even though the map may only say Port Orem). As an aid to determining the current name of legally incorporated municipalities, as well as the name of the current legally incorporated municipality within which a local or variant name fails, reference should be made to "New Jersey Local Names, Municipalities and Counties," produced by the New Jersey Department of Transportation (the 1983 revision was used in determining geographic headings used in this Guide).
Chronological Index

This index includes single dates and date spans which represent the dates of situation of the maps. These entries are further subdivided by geographical headings in alphabetical order.

Series Index

This index includes titles of series to which maps belong.

STANDARDS, METHODOLOGY AND ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Cartobibliographic data for the maps listed in this Guide was collected in accordance with the Anglo-American Cataloging Rules , second edition (1978), as interpreted in Cartographic Materials, a Manual of Interpretation for AACR2 , edited by Hugo L.P. Stibbe (1982). The data was then computerized and the resultant register and indexes produced through use of the SPINDEX program package developed by the National Archives, as well as through use of MarkIV programs developed especially for this Guide.

The use of national standards in the development of this Guide allows this to be a functional classification and cataloging system for any map collection. Complete instructional documentation on this system is available in the Department of Special Collections and Archives, Rutgers University Libraries.

The author is aware of a few minor inconsistencies in format which appear in this Guide, which will be rectified where possible in the second edition.

This project was funded by grants from the New Jersey Committee for the Humanities, the Blauvelt-Demarest Foundation, and by Rutgers University Libraries.

This project would not have been possible without the assistance of the staff of the Center for Computer and Management Services, Rutgers University, and specifically Richard Gretter and Charlotte Placilla-Lane.

NOTE: This supplement to the Guide to New Jersey Maps in Special Collections and Archives, Rutgers University Libraries, prepared in April 1989, describes 26 editions of 17 map titles from the New Jersey Geological Survey's first topographic atlas. These 26 maps received conservation treatment, including deacidification, during 1988 and 1989, as did three additional maps (already listed in the map guide) which the survey included in its first atlas. Funding for the project was received from the New Jersey State Library through its grants-in-aid program for the maintenance and preservation of library collections.
