

Recent Faculty Publications
Now available...

9th Annual Celebration of Faculty Authors

The Libraries' Celebration of Recently Published Faculty Authors exhibition and reception honors the recent publications of Rutgers faculty. The opening reception will be held Wednesday March 21st, from 5:00 - 7:00 pm, in the atrium, on the lower level of the Alexander Library. Acting Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs Richard Edwards and Vice President for Information Services/University Librarian Marianne Gaunt will greet all exhibition participants at the opening reception. For more details, click here.

Librarians Support High-Profile Academic Programs

The challenges that many students may face as they transition from high school to college, and later to the real world, are often quite daunting. Rutgers librarians are working closely with faculty, in a variety of disciplines, to help students manage those transitions and to achieve their goals, academically, and ultimately, professionally. Women's Studies Librarian Kayo Denda, Education Librarian and Instruction Coordinator Jeris Cassel, and Social Sciences Librarian Karen Hartman are just a few who are partnering with academic departments to provide research assistance and guidance. Read more here.

Academic Colleagues Tap Librarians for Leadership

In January 2010, World History Librarian James Niessen took over as director of the Institute for Hungarian Studies and in September 2010, Social Sciences Librarian, Triveni Kuchi assumed the position of director of the South Asian Studies Program, a post in which she continues to serve. During their tenures, both Jim and Triveni coordinated events for the public, participated in outreach for their programs, and worked with faculty to advance the interests of their disciplines. To read more, click here.

Spotlight

We are MOBILE!

The Rutgers University Libraries are happy to introduce a new mobile website, easily accessible from all smart phones. The new website at m.libraries.rutgers.edu allows users to perform essential functions like search the library catalog, look up hours and directions, and chat with a librarian. The library catalog on m.libraries.rutgers.edu is a highly streamlined version of the one that is available on our website (www.libraries.rutgers.edu) and has been carefully designed to include the most essential keyword and browse searching options. For more information, click here.

Our Future. Your Voice.

Over the past year librarians, staff, and administrators at the Rutgers University Libraries have been developing a new strategic plan to guide our actions for the next three years. The Libraries aspire to provide outstanding information resources and services that advance research and learning, support the University's goal to be among the top public AAU institutions in the country, and serve as an essential information resource for the state and beyond. A draft of our Strategic Plan has been prepared, and we invite your feedback. For more information, please click here.