

Recent Faculty Publications
Now available...

Enhanced Libraries electronic classroom becomes much-sought-after space

In early September, without much fanfare, the Libraries advised its staff and campus partners that a space in the Douglass Library had been reconfigured to better serve instruction purposes. The response from academic faculty has been quite encouraging.

More on this story

Now, just one phone number to remember for Libraries in New Brunswick & Piscataway

We've made it a whole lot easier for anyone to call us with a question about the Rutgers libraries in New Brunswick or Piscataway (hours? research assistance? 'My account,?' online access? etc.). Now, just call one number - 848-932-6000.

Institute of Jazz Studies designated a Literary Landmark by the NJ Center for the Book

Faculty, community members, students, and jazz archivists from across the region crowded the Dana Room in the John Cotton Dana Library, on the Rutgers-Newark campus, on October 23rd to help celebrate as the Institute of Jazz Studies was honored as the New Jersey Center for the Book's fifth Literary Landmark. The Institute, the world's largest jazz archive, joins Newark Public Library, Paterson Public Library, the Walt Whitman Center and the Joyce Kilmer Tree site as a Literary Landmark designee. More on this story

Spotlight

Biomedical & Life Sciences Collection

The Biomedical & Life Sciences Collection includes over 1,500 seminar style presentations containing the latest research and developments as well as the disciplines fundamentals from many of the world's leading experts, including Nobel Laureates. The collection is organized into comprehensive modules, and is updated monthly. To access this resource, click here

Ethnographic Video for Instruction and Analysis (EVIA) Digital Archive

EVIA is a digital archive of ethnographic field videos representing a wide variety of geographic areas; religious, ethnic, and cultural groups; music and dance traditions; music performances, rehearsals, and other music events; and ethnographic interviews. Videos are annotated by the researchers who created them. To access this resource, click here